2. [] witnessed a demonstration of a new, unidentified Soviet infra-red searchlight with a one-kilometer range for use by reconnaissance units. [] the Hungarian army would soon receive "Soviet sniperscopes" [] a mortar demonstrated. It was approximately 140mm, breech-loading, [] the Hungarian army would not get many of these because they were too expensive.
3. [] received basic instruction in CBR. [] each soldier was issued a gas mask and a kit to be used in the event of atomic attack. The kit contained a cape, boots, and unidentified medicaments to be applied to exposed parts of the body. He knew of no general decontamination materials, but as an engineer was told that in order to clear a road through a contaminated area, it would be necessary to bulldoze the road and take off about 30 cm. of topsoil. He also stated that Gieger counters and three basic unidentified Soviet types of other radiation detecting devices were available.

Information Concerning the Insurrection

4. On 23 October 1956, [] a group of students who went to the State Theater and took down the Red Star and cut out the Soviet emblem from the Hungarian flag. The group then went to the Central Budapest Radio Station and demanded that the people be informed of the start of the revolution. The group was forbidden to do this and when it did not leave, the AVH personnel fired on the group and threw tear gas bombs. [] The group, two thousand or three thousand in number, remained in the area and at 0200 on 24 October 1956, unidentified Hungarian Army troops came to disperse them. The troops, rather than disperse the group, gave the insurgents their weapons. Ammunition was scarce, however. An hour later, fifteen T-34 tanks pulled up into the mob; the crews climbed out and gave their tanks and weapons to the mob. At this time the Hungarian troops did not participate in the fighting, they only watched. The group then moved to the Corving Building where the AVH was concentrated. Here a severe battle followed. [] there were approximately 500 insurgent casualties in the

5. On 8 November 1956 a group of 400 insurgents [] attacked the city hall; however, it was well fortified and the group received approximately 200 casualties. From 8 November until 17 November, [] fought in various parts of the city against groups of AVH and Soviet personnel. On 17 November 1956 [] fled with a group of 150 across the Austro-Hungarian border in the vicinity of Sopron. The border crossing was entirely unobstructed.
